ABSTRACT

This report was compiled during my industrial training that lasted for 10 weeks in Busitema University Arapai Campus farm. The major purpose of this training is to fulfill the requirements needed for a partial fulfillment in Diploma in crop production and management of BUAC and also to put theoretical knowledge got from class into practice.

We also participated in several activities like de-worming, spraying cattle & goats against ticks and pigs and lice and mange. Weeding and spraying of crops e.g. maize, banana plants to control pest's army worms, fertilizer application on different crops such as tomatoes in green house and maize and also establishment of Nursery beds plus identification of diseases in both animals and crops with the corresponding treatments.

In addition to acquired skills and the knowledge in farm management, study of diseases, their course and control, I learnt on how to maintain hygiene on the farm, giving feeds to pigs at different ratio using different feeds, feeding of dairy animals.

In conclusion, the great experience and the skills I gained in the study have rendered me strength, skill and knowledge, above all appreciate the staff of Arapai Campus for helping me to put theoretical knowledge in to practice in both crops and animal management

More work was done on identification of different breeds of animals, pasture improvement and record keeping.

I recommend the BUAC to bring in new breeds of goats, cattle and pig s, purchase of apparatus such as heart girth and tools such as slashes, hand hoes for easing the activities in the farm since there were a few challenges in different sections due to lack of equipment.

CHAPTER ONE

1.0. INTRODUCTION

1.1. Definition.

The internship program started on 28/ February /2022 and ended on 1st /May/2022 [For 10 weeks]. Internship is one of the modules offered by students as an attribute to the awards of Certificates, Diplomas, and Degrees. And it's mainly for advancing students to gain more skills and knowledge mainly in practical. And it also helps to socialize students with the other community people since they go to different training centers/ farms.

1.2. Background.

The faculty of Agriculture and Animal science started operation in 2010 taking over from Arapai Agricultural College that had been existence since 1952 offering diploma and certificates to Agriculture related subjects.

Its located 10 kilometers along Soroti –Moroto Road

1.3. Purpose and objectives

- ✓ To build confidence in students.
- ✓ To enable students benefit from the skills learnt from the field.
- ✓ To share experience between the farmers and students
- ✓ To enable students apply classroom knowledge in the fields.

1.4. Methodology.

During the internship program, the students had to apply to various training institutions/ farms for their internship/ industrial training whereby they were given acceptance letters which they submitted to Busitema University Arapai Campus for the directives during assessment

While in the implementation of the internship program, there were some ethical considerations that were to be observed by the students while working with the farmers, supervisors and community. Some of these were;
