ABSTRACT

This report is a compilation of what I learnt and did during my industrial training program at Wera sub-county which is a government entity under Amuria district local government from 28th February to 06th May, 2022. This was designated by Busitema University, Faculty of Agriculture and animal Sciences Arapai Campus with an intension of building the capacity of the students pursuing different programs in practical skills related to their areas of specialization in various fields of agriculture in comparison with theoretical knowledge acquired from class as well as serving as a partial requirement for the award of a Diploma in Animal Production and Management.

This report is made up of four chapters. Chapter one majorly talks about the introduction which gives the sub-county's background, department of attachment, location, organization structure, ownership, sector of operation, beneficiaries, goals and objectives. Chapter two discusses the activities which I myself did and executed under the supervision of my field supervisor AAHO Mr. Odeke Stephen Engoru, description of the tasks performed in the working days and other activities I attended in the sub-county like the sub-county planning meeting. Chapter three consists of the impacts of the various attachments to me as a student which are; the skills gained, responsibilities undertaken, how the activities performed will influence my future, correlation of the activities performed with class room knowledge and the challenges faced during the training. Chapter four gives the conclusions and recommendations to both the University and the Sub-county. And lastly appendices and references.

1.0 CHAPTER ONE.

1.1 Introduction.

This report is about the internship carried out at Wera sub-county. It describes the activities that were executed during the course of industrial training.

The report covers;

- The cover page.
- Preliminary pages.
- Chapter one to chapter four.
- References.
- Appendices.

1.2 BACKGROUND OF FIELD ATTACHMENT.

The department of Agribusiness and Extension under the Faculty of Agriculture and Animal Sciences sends students for industrial training at the end of every academic year one as a fulfillment for the award of a Diploma of Animal Production and Management. This course is intended to introduce students to various technological skills and increase their exposure to practical knowledge.

The student is required to participate in day to day activities at his or her area of attachment as a regular worker. This activity lasts at least eight weeks starting immediately after the end of examinations of semester two of the first year of study.

1.3 OBJECTIVES OF FIELD ATTACHMENT.

- To expose students to practical aspects of animal production and management.
- To provide opportunity to students to relate knowledge obtained during lectures to actual field operations.
- To teach students various animal production and management technics necessary for career building.
- To enable students learn how to work in a team.
- To enable students appreciate various challenges faced in the field and critical areas necessitating further research studies.
